Fieldwork Learning Contract

In clinical education, a contract between student and Fieldwork Educator outlines the specific activities each will do to resolve a problem or reach a goal. The contract should be developed by both parties, agreed upon by both and the outcome evaluated by both. A third person may be useful in the development and evaluation phases to serve as 'negotiator' or 'arbitrator,' i.e., to have an unbiased viewpoint towards the terms of the contract. Please feel free to contact the D'Youville AFWC regarding student concerns, changing student behavior or improving student's performance to reach a goal.
